Working in Germany: Career Information Day for international PhDs and Postdocs

The Welcome Center of the University of Rostock will host a Career Information Day to bring awareness of available career opportunities for international PhDs and Postdocs in Germany apart from jobs at the university or non-university research institutions - especially in the Rostock area - and provide an understanding of what is required to successfully enter the German labor market. Different institutions who help to gain access to that market like the Careers Service of the University of Rostock or the International Placement Services of the Federal Employment Agency will be present, too. There will be speakers from industry as well giving their tips on how to secure employment in their field of work. This will also include how to apply, what to expect in an interview and what the employers really look for in international candidates. Don’t miss the chance to meet professionals interested in helping you to achieve your professional goals!

Date: Wednesday, November 28, 2018 from 05:00 p.m. - 07:00 p.m.
