The Faculty of the Humanities at the University of Rostock invites applications for a

Professorship for English Linguistics (salary level W2)

at the Institute of British and American Studies at the earliest possible date (within budget considerations).

In the area of teaching, the holder of the professorship is expected to cover the full scope of the field of Anglophone Linguistics (Bachelor, Teacher Training), as well as contributing to the research-oriented Master Program “British and American Transcultural Studies.” We seek an academic personality with a research specialization in at least two core fields of Anglophone linguistics (e.g. word formation/lexicology, semantics, syntax, pragmatics, social and regional varieties). One of these specializations should include diachronic aspects (language history).

In addition, the faculty expects of the future colleague to participate in the initiatives of the Interdisciplinary Faculty (INF) of Rostock University and its various departments.

Qualifications are as per § 58 of the Higher Education Act of the State of Mecklenburg-Vorpommern (LHG M-V): completed university studies, doctoral degree, post-doctoral thesis (“Habilitation”) or equivalent, substantial teaching experience.

A special focus is placed on academic achievement and teaching qualifications as well academic organization and administration. For this reason application portfolios should include previous teaching results, ideas regarding future teaching (including didactic lesson planning) and their prior experience in academic and research management.

In addition, candidates are expected to have experience and interest in developing programs that can attract and maintain external funding.

The professorship is to be filled according to § 61 LHG M-V as a position with civil servant status for life, or, if applicable, for 5 years. It is also possible to fill the position as a regular state employee.

The University of Rostock is committed to their university management guidelines. Equal opportunities are part of our personnel policy. The announcement is therefore aimed at all persons regardless of their gender (* gender-neutral). Disabled applicants will be given preference if all other qualifications are essentially equal.
The University of Rostock is especially interested in promoting women within the context of § 7 (3) of the Gender Equality Act, and therefore specifically encourages applications from qualified women. Women will be given priority if their qualifications are essentially equivalent, unless reasons attributable to the person of the competitor predominate.

Applications with the usual documents (full CV, a complete list of academic and professional background, publications, teaching experience, any additional qualifications, a summary of grants and sponsored research activities and a description of future research plans) should be sent by e-mail to berufungen.phf@uni-rostock.de no later than 28.02.2020.

The protection of your personal information is very important to us. Therefore, the data collected during the application process will be collected, processed and used in accordance with the relevant data protection rules.

Application costs cannot be reimbursed by the State of Mecklenburg-Vorpommern.
