

Living and working in Germany

Moving to another country isn't always easy – new places, new culture, new habits. Especially the labour market can be very challenging. At the same time having a safe employment is important to get along quickly in the new country. But how do you do that? What do you have to pay attention on and what chances or potentials do you have on the German labour market?

“Living and working in Germany” is an event for international students at the University of Rostock and everyone who wants to get answers to these and other questions to enter the German job market more successfully.

Topics:

- German labour market – tendencies
- Work permit and residence permit for professionals from non-EU-countries
- Engineers' vacancies in Germany – requirements and searching strategies

Date: Friday, 20th September, 2019, 09:00 - 10:30 a.m.

Where: Student Service Center, Parkstraße 6, 18057 Rostock, R. 131

Trainer: Dr. Andreas Roger (Federal Employment Agency – International Placement Service)

Language: English

